"The Edible Landscape: Growing Food in the City"

Laura Berman is a guerrilla gardener with a background in landscape architecture, horticulture and graphic design. Now she is a photographer who will talk about "edible landscapes" and our increasing interest in growing healthy and organic food in our cities.....places where the red and green lettuces, sugar snap peas, and rainbow chard share beds with the perennials!

Growing the Club

The website is currently being created by Sharri Featherston. Also, an unaddressed airmail postcard campaign has been proposed which could be distributed on a trial basis to see if it is a successful recruitment tool. Flyers have been printed and will be distributed to the local schools.

The reading garden will be enhanced by the addition of another half circle of interlocking brick in the centre of the garden. It will have to be extended to accommodate the staff table. Trevor Morrison will be asked to quote on this project.

Thanks to Ted Barnicoat for his work over the summer spreading mulch and controlling the weeds.

Summer Bus Trip

WCGC joined the Kanata March Horticultural Society on a trip to the Montreal Botanical Gardens on July 19. All who attended would agree that it was a highlight of the summer. We learned that they had the most extensive rose collection in the world and they were certainly at their best. The Chinese Garden was especially memorable in light of the games this year.

On the way home, we stopped at Jardin Pepiniere where we were treated to a vast array of plant specimens. Luckily there was lots of room in the luggage compartment for all of our purchases.
